Bourbons

Bourbon was created in the early 19th century after European settlers, particularly those from Scotland, began to settle the land that is present day Kentucky. These people brought with them traditional Scotch whiskey and refined the process to create bourbon. It is a type of whiskey distilled in the United States from a fermented mixture of hot water and grain mash containing at least 51 percent corn. Bourbon is typically amber or brown in color and cannot be over 160 proof. The production is a strictly controlled process with intense regulations. We have carefully selected 48 bourbons that showcase the diversity of this style of whiskey.

Woodford Reserve Barn Whiskies

We traveled to Kentucky to blend our own unique barrel of Woodford Reserve. We chose two unique barrels to blend into our own Barn No. 7 blend. We also carefully selected our own Barrel of Double Wood to offer our Guests two distinctive world class bourbons exclusive to the bourbon lounge and not available anywhere else. Cheers!

Angel's Envy Bourbon 11.50 Crestwood, KY. 86.6 proof, aged 4-6 years in port casks, mash is unspecified. Light in body and deep gold in color. The nose is subtle with chocolate milk, roses and stewed fruit. The slightest spice on the tongue, finishes quickly with a lingering cinnamon ping.
Baker's Bourbon 11
Clermont, KY. 107 proof, aged 7 years, the recipe is derived from Jim Beam, although the precise mash bill is a closely held company secret—it reportedly contains about 15% rye. Medium-full in body and mahogany in color. The nose is vaporous, with caramel apples, strawberries, and corn chips; a little water brings out pear and sandalwood. Lots of sweet flavors and almost no spice on the palate. There's plenty of bite at the end, with a sweet spiciness.
Basil Hayden Bourbon
Clermont, KY. 80 proof, aged 8 years, mash is not disclosed but is considered a high rye whiskey. Basil Hayden is Old Grand-Dad but aged longer. Light in body and tawny/auburn in color. The nose is full of dark fruit—plums and cherries, mostly—as well as cinnamon, candy corn and a touch of vanilla. The palate is very spice forward, much less sweet than it smells, with a medium-

Ryes

In the United States, "rye whiskey" is by law made from a mash of at least 51 percent rye. The other ingredients of the mash are usually corn and malted barley. It is distilled to no more than 160 proof, and aged in charred, new oak barrels. Rye whiskey that has been so aged for at least two years may be further designated as "straight," as in "straight rye whiskey."

– Tennessee Whiskies –

Tennessee whiskey is straight bourbon whiskey produced in Tennessee. However, most current producers of Tennessee whiskey disclaim references to their products as "Bourbon" and do not label them as such on any of their bottles or advertising materials. With one exception, all current producers are required by Tennessee law to produce their whiskey in Tennessee and to also use a filtering step known as the Lincoln County Process prior to aging the whiskey – which some assert makes the product distinct from the more generic product category called Bourbon.

more generic product category called bootbon.
